Background of the Course

This course will introduce the students of all streams of Social Sciences to the basic understanding of research methodology in Social Sciences. It will be a great learning experience for all students irrespective of the subject. The course is unique in the manner that it introduces the students to both Quantitative and Qualitative Research methods. It will familiarise the students with using the Quantitative Method, developing sample-designs, designing questionnaires, conducting interviews and analysing the data too. Along with this, the course will also provide for a broad understanding of the Qualitative Research Method, like Case Studies, Ethnographic Research, Participatory Research Appraisal, etc. All-in-all, the course will be a perfect platform for students to learn the basics of Research.

Learning Outcomes

It will enhance the skills of students in research methodologies. It will help the students of any discipline of Social Sciences to research further. The dialogue of Quantitative methodology and Qualitative Methodology will prove highly beneficial for all students. This will further help the students in whichever field they wish to pursue ahead, be it academia, policy-making, mass media, civil-society, independent researching, etc.
